L. & N. SURE TO CROSS THE OHIO

At Shawneetown so Says Daily Press.

Theory Advanced by This Paper Confirmed—Means Much for Hartford.

Following the publication in the Republican last week of the story to the effect that the M. H. and E. railroad will probably form a connecting link for a trunk line of railroad from Louisville to St. Louis and from St. Louis to the South, a Carmi, Ill., dispatch to the Journal News of Evansville, Ind., calls attention to the action of the L. & N. officials in attempting to procure a right-of-way over the Shawneetown, levee, which the correspondent of that paper thinks is convincing evidence that that company intends to cross the river at Shawneetown, with its road in the manner we stated it would.

The dispatch says:—The citizens of Shawneetown, are much exercised over the way the L. & N. and B. & O., railroads are sparring for the use of the famous levee at that place each seeming to desire a right-of-way thereon. The B. & O., had a right-of-way on the levee years ago but lost the franchise by reason of not occupying the same, and now the L. & N. have made overtures to the city council for the right saying they would like to extend their tracks thereon. This will bring the station up town, but the thing that interests Shawneetownites is the fact that they believe the real reason for wanting the levee is their purpose to cross the river at that place.

The road some time ago extended their line from Providence to Morganfield, Ky., within a few miles from Shawneetown and this would save them five hours in a direct line from St. Louis to the South. Since the occupying of the levee with their tracks by the B. & O., for the reason that occupancy meant maintenance, and the floods were hard to control, it is believed that the L. & N., would not think of occupying the same unless there was a desire to cross the river. Shawneetown offers $100,000 if the bridge is built.

Taking our "Trunk Line" story as a text and quoting liberally therefrom the Courier Journal discusses the new railroad at length editorially. Omitting its quotations from The Republican it says:

A new railroad which will form an important connecting link is being built from Madisonville by way of Smallhouse, Centertown and Hartford to a point on the Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis railroad, probably at or near Irvington. The enterprise has already reached the track-laying stage and many miles of the road are practically completed. There are some indications that it may develop into a more ambitious project than is contemplated in the immediate scheme of construction, but railroad builders are never very communicative and the presumption of a larger plan is merely speculative. The line, at any rate, will develop a new territory. It extends across a strip of country every foot of which is underlaid by coal deposits and its construction is sure to be followed by the opening of a number of new mines.

Hartford, a good inland town, which has no direct railroad facilities at present, will be put in closer touch with the world and will see the realization of years of effort to secure such connection. Hartford has witnessed the rise and fall of a number of railroad schemes and after a season of hope long deferred, her citizens are doubtless in a frame of mind to celebrate with exceeding great joy the coming of the iron horse. It takes a good many paper railroads to make a real, tangible railroad, with right of way, tracks and equipment. Hartford is to be congratulated that one of her fondest dreams is about to be realized.

Whether the road is to materialize into a trunk line is a matter for the future to decide. For the present there is the assurance of an important addition to the railway mileage of the State, passing in part through an undeveloped country, putting isolated towns in touch with the outside world and promising material additions to Kentucky's mines and mineral output. This of itself is cause for gratification, not only to those who are to feel the quickening thrill of a new artery of commerce, but to all who are interested in the progress and prosperity of the Commonwealth.

Ground Corn Cobs not Food.

The Kentucky Pure Food law was upheld on every point by the court of appeals in sustaining Circuit Judge Birkhead in the Ohio county case of W. H. Small and company against the commonwealth. The case brought out some new laws.

F. M. Allen of Centertown bought some stock food which his stock would not stand for and decided to have an investigation. The food was sent to the Kentucky Experiment station for analysis and was found to consist principally of crushed corn-cobs. On this report W. H. Small and company had to go into court and a fine of $100 and costs was assessed against them for selling food which did not come up to the requirements. The case was immediately appealed with the result that the fine sticks.

NEW PLEDGE

MEETS WITH FAVOR.

Burley Tobacco Society Revises Form of Contract With Growers.

Winchester, Ky., June 14.—It is claimed that the pledge for the 1909 crop now being perfected by the district board of the Burley Tobacco Society is the best and strongest business proposition that has ever been made to the growers in any of the tobacco organizations. It is believed that a fight won on this pledge will solve the problem for years to come, because it places the growers of tobacco in a strong financial position that will cause the opponents of the farmers' organization to "sit up and take notice."

The new pledge contemplates a uniform system and uniform charges in all counties, which provision, it is said, will eliminate waste and friction and secure the most economical management.

The pledge provides that the society shall carry its own insurance, and that in this one item $400,000 will be saved to the growers. It is estimated that from the time tobacco of the 1906 crop began to be delivered to the purchasers of all the tobacco in the 1906 and 1907 crops about $500,000 was paid out in insurance, the average rate with the old insurance companies over the district being $2.50 per annum on the $100. The actual losses by fire have been less than $75,000. Since the new plan proposes to insure the tobacco for actual cost, the saving to the growers will be over $400,000.

Other features of the pledge, such as the financing, pricing and storing, are said to be equally attractive. Those who have given the new pledge the most earnest study believe that organized on the basis provided by this pledge the society will in the future be invincible. The pledge will be finally revised this week and then made public and the campaign begun.

Association Meeting.

The industrial co-operative association of Ohio county will meet Thursday June 24 at Independence school house. The hour of meeting will be at one o'clock p. m. All members should be present to attend to some important business and all laboring people who believe in organization and co-operation between producers and consumers are invited to be present at said meeting.

T. J. PHELPS, Pres.

McHenry, Ky.

Reward Offered.

Gov. Willson has offered a reward of $200 each for the arrest and return of Hartford of Lige and Roy Crowe, who are charged with the murder of Emile Wade. Lige Crowe was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for seventeen years. He and Roy Crowe were in jail and escaped by sawing their way through the bars. Application for the reward was made by Judge W. B. Taylor.

CORPORATE INCOMES TO BE TAXED.

Congress to Pass Such Law at This Session.

Amendment to Federal Constitution to be Proposed Making Income Tax Legal.

Washington, D. C., June 16.—The Finance Committee has practically determined upon the presentation of an amendment to the tariff bill providing for a tax on dividends of corporations as a substitute for the income tax amendments. President Taft is heartily in favor of this form of special tax and it will be known, probably, as the "Taft amendment". There are many Republicans who feel it necessary to vote for an income tax, or some substitute for the same purpose, and when the President learned that the organization was still short a few votes necessary to refer the income tax amendments to the Committee on Judiciary, he gave new impetus to the corporation tax proposition and advised its presentation as a substitute.

The details of the proposed amendment are yet to be worked out. A tax of two per cent. on the dividends of corporations is the suggestion of the President, but whether that percentage will be adopted by the committee remains to be determined and will depend largely, no doubt, on the estimates of the probable revenue, which are now to be compiled with greater accuracy than heretofore. One thing seems to be settled, and that is that such an amendment will provide for the imposition of this special tax for a specified period, two or perhaps three years. Some Senators are heartily in favor of the President's plan, while others would prefer to postpone the enactment of special taxes until next year, on the ground that it will then be possible to determine the precise revenue producing power of the new tariff law.

Those who favor it submit that a tax of two per cent. on the dividends of corporations would be insufficient to amount to a hardship to any stockholders; that such a tax would prove immensely popular with the great majority of the voters, etc., and they believe, too, that were a proposition so favored by the Chief Executive to be incorporated in the bill it would insure for it a heartiness of support by him and possibly a leniency in dealing with the schedules which would facilitate the work of the joint committee on conference. And last, but not least, the claim is put forth by those who favor such an amendment that the Republican party would be in a better tactical position could it go into the campaign of 1910 with a record of having enacted legislation which is accumulating a surplus in the Treasury instead of enacting a measure which barely meets, or perhaps falls just short of meeting, the federal expenses.

An amendment to the Federal constitution is to be proposed removing the doubt of the legality of a general income tax law.

The announcement of the probable substitution of this amendment for the income tax amendments of Senators Bailey and Cummins brought the two Senators together immediately in a determination to bury their differences and unite on a common measure. They have agreed on a measure which includes the fundamental provisions of the Cummins amendment and the non-essentials of the Bailey amendment, and they now insist that they purpose to press its adoption with all their power. This is interpreted to mean a line-up of President Taft and Senator Aldrich, backed by the Republican organization on one side, and Senators Cummins and Bailey, backed by the "insurgent" Republicans and the Democrats on the other side.

The income tax amendment agreed upon by Senators Cummins and Bailey provides for a tax of two per cent. of all incomes exceeding $5,000 a year with a provision for the reimbursement of those stockholders in corporations whose total incomes do not exceed $5,000.

Notice.

As the time is ripe for the development of contagious and infectious diseases, due in great measure to the prevalence of heat and moisture and the resultant superabundance of vegetation, the County Board of Health of Ohio County, takes this method of appealing to the good citizens, both in town and country, to put in good sanitary condition, their premises and places of business, vacant lots &c., by at once removing all refuse material and sprinkling well with lime fresh from the barrel, and by keeping all vegetation cut close to the ground on all vacant lots etc. All toilet houses should be kept scrupulously clean and whitewashed inside and out. The law says: "Between the first day of May and the first day of November, no hogs shall be kept within one-half mile of the corporate limits of any city or town in this State. The local board shall order the removal of such animals at any time when they appear to be prejudicial to the public health, safety or comfort."

MUHLBURG MAN

AND WOMAN ARRESTED.

Held in the Greenville Jail on the Charge of Murdering M. G. Kimble.

Following the murder of M. G. Kimble, on Monday, May 17, at Ennis, Muhlenburg county, a bundle of letters discovered in a pond near the Kimble home lead to the arrest last Saturday of Clay Smith, aged twenty-five years, married, and Miss Bessie Kimble, aged fifteen years, a daughter of the murdered man and sister-in-law of Smith. It is alleged that Smith betrayed the girl which led to the killing of Kimble. Both are locked in cells at the Greenville jail awaiting the action of the grand jury. Smith and his wife and child formerly lived on the farm of his father-in-law, but after a disagreement two years ago moved to a neighboring farm. It was claimed that Bessie Kimble was seen to throw letters in the pond and after a search officers found a bundle of letters in the pond and say they contain evidence of Smith's guilt.

ROSINE.

June 15.—Sunday school is progressing nicely at this place. Bro. Bailey filled his regular appointment at this place last Sunday evening.

Bro. Willis will fill his regular appointment here next Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night.

The new Christian church at this place will be dedicated the third Sunday in July. Everybody is invited to come.

Mr. Smauel Wilson, of Cleburn county, Ark., is visiting his children and many friends at this place. It is the first time Mr. Wilson has been in old Kentucky for twelve years.

NEW BAYMUS.

June 14.—The good rains and hot weather are making crops look fine in this community.

Little Mary Elizabeth, the bright and beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rowe Harrison, who has had whooping cough for the past five weeks, is convalescing.

Mr. A. R. Renfrow's baby, of Narrows, is quite ill with flux.

Quite a crowd from here attended the Unveiling at Midkiff grave yard last Sunday evening.

Misses Utha and Urna Boswell, Daisy Wedding and Mollie Bratcher visited Miss Olivia Harrison last Saturday evening.

Mr. John Jones and family and Mr. Layton Wilson, of Jonesboro, Ark., returned to their home the 8th, after visiting relatives in this neighborhood and at Falls of Rough, last week.

Little Geneva Allen, who has been quite ill of whooping cough, is some better.

Mr. Tom Johnson, Mrs. Bettie Cole and family, Bro. Frey, Mr. Buck Mitchell and family, Mr. Charley Quisenberry and family spent Friday at the Barretts Ferry bridge fishing.

Mr. Rowe Harrison, who has been on the sick list for quite a while, is slowly improving.

PROMINENT MINISTER SUCCEUMBS

To Paralytic Affliction Caused by Over-Exertion.

Rev. T. M. Morton Was Pastor in Green River Country for Eighteen Years.

The Rev. T. M. Morton, one of the best known Baptist ministers in Western Kentucky, died of paralysis at 7 o'clock Friday morning at Livmore following an illness of several weeks. He was for the past eighteen years pastor of various churches in the Green river section. He was fifty-three years of age and was converted at the age of twelve years and in 1891 he entered the ministry. He was respected and loved by all who knew him and was always progressive and active in public affairs. As a result of his efforts a large number of new church buildings have been erected through this and other counties, the subscriptions to the building funds being led with a liberal donation from him.

At the time of his death he was pastor of Baptist churches at Sugar Grove, South Hampton and Panther. One of the recent new churches built by Mr. Morton was that at Pleasant Grove.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Laura Morton, and five brothers, Richard Morton, of Owensboro; V. B. Morton of Livermore; L. C. Morton of Centertown and Sam Morton, Ceralvo, two sisters, Mrs. Mollie Smith, of Livermore and Mrs. Ida Paxton, of Louisville.

The funeral of Rev. Morton, was conducted at his home Sunday afternoon in the presence of one of the largest assemblages ever seen at a similar occasion in this part of Kentucky. The funeral sermon was delivered by Rev. O. M. Shultz, pastor of the Baptist church at Livermore, and was an able and impressive sermon. Rev. John Bennett gave an interesting talk on the life work of Rev. Morton, after which the burial was conducted by the Livermore Masonic Lodge assisted by many members of the order from Colhoun, Island Station, Ulica, Matanzas, Hartford and other neighboring towns.

There were probably three hundred masons in the line of march. Rev. Morton was a former citizen of Ohio county and widely known throughout the Green River country. The floral offerings were profuse and came from many friends and from the churches over which he was pastor at the time of his death.

The following members of Hartford Lodge No. 675, F. & A. M., attended the burial, going down Rough river in the gasoline yacht, Pearl: A. D. White, J. C. Riley, E. P. Moore, J. R. Pirtle, W. E. Ellis, E. P. Thomas, Emory Schroeter, Harry O'Bannon and C. M. Barnett.

FAIRVIEW.

June 15.—We are still having a good Sunday school at this place, while the crowds are not as large as might be expected we are very well satisfied with the attendance and the pupils, unusually well behaved and attentive. Bro. Lawrence of Beaver Dam pastor of the Cane Run Baptist church will be with us next Sunday afternoon and night. In the afternoon he will address the Sunday school and at night will deliver one of his excellent sermons. We will be glad to have Bro. Lawrence with us and we must show our appreciation by all going out to hear him both times.

A number from this community attended church at Schroader Sunday. They report a fine time and plenty of dinner for all.

Mrs. Mary Wright the aged mother of Messrs. John and James Wright is reported to be very ill of troubles incident to old age.

Miss Maude Faught the deaf mute daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Faught has returned home after several months in school at Danville. Miss Maude is an unusually bright and attractive girl and has many friends here who gladly welcome her home.

Rev. T. J. Acton spent Saturday with his cousins Mr. Charles Huff and family near Mt. Vernon.

Mr. Lorenzo Acton Sulphur Springs made a pleasant trip to this community Sunday afternoon.

News is scarce in this neighborhood farmers are all busy in their crops and they don't take time to visit, we are blessed with but little sickness so we have none to report on that list, but methinks I hear wedding bells. Guess there will be a wedding to report soon.

Rev. T. J. Acton will preach at Vine Hill next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Miller-Cottrell.

The Rev. Ernest Cottrell and Miss Bernice Miller were married at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, June 16, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Miller, at Owensboro. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ellis Cottrell, a brother of the groom. Rev. Mr. Cottrell is pastor of churches at Thurston, Maceo and Chestnut Grove and is one of the most popular ministers in Daviess county. The bride has been a teacher in the public schools and has many friends in Owensboro.

RALPH.

June 14.—Farmers are very busy with their crops.

Those who attended the Masonic banquet at Fordsville Saturday night were Frank Taylor, T. A. Taylor, Robert Taylor, J. A. Edge, Ronda Wade and C. D. Farmer.

Miss Ozona Moseley, Hartford, is the guest of her cousin, Addie Mae Edge this week.

Misses Nonie and Gerty, Eva and Essie Taylor were the guests of Miss Addie Mae Edge Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Ralph attended church at Sugar Grove Sunday.

Several from Deansfield passed through here Friday enroute to the old bed of Rough River to spend the day fishing.

Born to the wife of Mr. Fred Taylor, the 12th, inst., a fine boy. Ferd is all smiles.

Most of the young folks at Sunday school went to Mr. R. F. Taylor's to eat ice cream. Those present were Misses Eva Martin, Ozona Moseley, Addie Edge, Nonie Taylor, Essie Taylor and Gerty Taylor. Messrs. Thos. Hamilton, Lonnie Owen, Ronda Wade, Rob. Tayladr, Dode Taylor, and Leslie Greer.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Helton, Sugar Grove, Ky., visited R. F. Taylor Sunday.

Mrs. Otha Farmer visited her husband last wee, who is confined in the Hopkinsville Asylum. She reports him improving.

OLATON.

June 16.—Mr. John Allen is building a store house at corner Main and Church streets. The new building will be quite an improvement for Olaton. Mrs. James Hall spent Thursday with Mrs. M. Hall.

McDaniel and White, millers off his place are building a large grainery on Dater street

Mr. Lon White was in Owensboro on business Monday.

News is scarce this week, but everybody say they will be at the picnic June 19. One man who says he is coming, hopes there will be 2999 people here that day.

COOL SPRINGS.

June 16.—Mrs. Joe Johnson, and children, of McHenry visited Mr. R. S. Dunn last week.

Mrs. Laura Tate of North Dakota, visited Mr. M. M. Tate last week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Dunn were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Scott, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Birch Wilson Beaver Dam were the guests of O. E. Scott and T. C. Dennis last week.

Misses Ula and Lennie Dunn visited at McHenry from Friday until Tuesday.

Mrs. Matilda Fulton of Wysox, visited her sister Mrs. Fogle Monday.

Mr. M. M. Tate's barn burned down last Tuesday night with the loss of lot of corn and hay and new wagons. No Insurance.

Concessions to Rent.

The undersigned committee will rent the concessions as a whole or separate for the Red Men's Pow Wow to be held at Cronwell, Ky., July 17th. Contract must be closed on or before July 1st.

DAILY MAIL OF THE PRESIDENT.

Roosevelt Received More Letters Than Any Other.

If he Took the Time to Read all Letters Received he Would Have Time for Nothing Else.

The daily mail of the president of the United States averages about 450 letters, and it has been falling off gradually since the inauguration. During the month of March he received as high as 2,000 letters a day, but the greater part of them were purely formal, conveying congratulations, applications and recommendations for office suggestions and comments upon his inaugural address and newspaper reports of his policy. President Roosevelt used to receive 500 letters a day, probably more than any other president, and since Cleveland's time the mail at the White House has more than doubled. Probably President Roosevelt received more letters than any other man that ever lived, and they covered an infinite variety of subjects. Many of them were "crank" letters, as they were called, written by people with queer ideas; many of them were incoherent; many of them were abusive and some were threatening. The president of the United States always receives threatening letters, and they are referred promptly to the chief of the secret service who frequently investigates the writers.

If the president tried to read all of the letters he received he would have very little time for anything else, but before he sees it his mail is opened, read, sorted and classified according to the subjects referred to.

This is done by confidential clerks of experience who have specific instructions. All letters referring to routine matters are sent direct to the various bureaus and departments of the government having jurisdiction over the subject matter of their contents; all purely formal letters are answered by a corps of secretaries under the direction of Fred Carpenter, secretary to the President who signs them; communications of personal, political or official interest are placed in a basket for the president, and he reads as many and as much of them as his time will allow. Mr. Latta his stenographer or Mr. Foster the assistant secretary sits at his side and usually makes brief notes upon the backs of the letters as instructed by the president to guide in framing answers for the president's signature. Very often the president dictates an entire letter and his secretary redrafts it to a stenographer, who writes it out upon White House paper.

It is probable that the president reads one-fourth of the letters that are addressed to him. It depends entirely upon their contents. He never sees any of the abusive or threatening letters. His secretaries endeavor to protect him from any waste of time upon those which are of no consequence. But he never fails to see any rational criticism or suggestion that is received from any citizen of the United States.

Few rulers read as many or dictate as many letters as the president of the United States. President Taft dictates readily. His long experience has taught him to dispose of business very rapidly and he can go through a tall pile of letters with as little delay as a railway manager.

All the good qualities of Ely's Cream Balm, solid, are found in Liquid Cream Balm, which is intended for use in atomizers. That it is a wonderful remedy for Nasal Catarrh is proved by an ever-increasing mass of testimony. It does not dry out nor rasp the tender air-passages. It allays the inflammation and goes straight to the root of the disease. Obstinate old cases have yielded in a few weeks. All druggists, 75c., including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

In Memory

Of Franklin M. Graft, of near Salem, who died Saturday morning June 5, 1909 after a lingering illness of consumption, his age was 35 years 3 months and 6 days, his remains were laid to rest Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Salem cemetery. At the age of 12 he professed faith in Christ and united with the Presbyterian church at Walnut Grove. He had since lived a model Christian life faithful to his trust. Several years ago he was united in marriage to Miss Ida Crumes who with two small children, and one sister, Mrs. Robert Myers of Olaton and two brothers Kern and Wyman the latter of Vicksburg Louisiana survive him. Frank was a devoted husband and father loving brother and son, a kind neighbor and a true friend and of him we can say he was a good man, every one liked him and to the bereaved wife and loved ones we can only say: Weep not for Frank as you would for one who had no hope but look unto Him who doeth all things well for he left evidence that he was going to the land of bliss, to be with the redeemed and his soul is now on high perhaps beckoning to some wayward one to prepare to meet him. Dear wife live faithful, be true to God and when the death Angel calls you will be permitted to join dear Frank in Heaven above, where all is joy and peace and love, and you can sing the praises of your maker forever and ever.

Train up the little ones (in whom was his pride) to love God above all things and to live lives pure and sweet worthy of invitation as dear father did, and bare in mind that we cannot bring him back to us but if we live true lives we can some day go to be with him forever more. Frank's death has left a vacancy in our homes that can never be refilled but there is room for us in Heaven with him and we must be prepared to go there.

A precious one from us is gone. A voice we loved is still. A place is vacant in our homes, Which never can be filled. God in his wisdom has recalled, The boon his love had given, And though his body slumbers here, His soul is safe in Heaven.

MONTHLY CROP REPORT FOR MAY

Compiled by the Bureau of Agriculture, Labor and Statistics
M. C. Rankin Com'r

There has been a very large amount of rain-fall during the month of May which the farmers greatly in their work.

The condition of wheat has shown a considerable tendency towards improvement over last month, and with weather favorable will make a fair yield.

Corn planting has about all been finished, except in several sections where the rain-fall has been very great. A larger acreage will be planted and more attention to this crop will be given than in many years.

Much rain has been favorable to those that had their ground prepared for tobacco setting. Many say that much ground is not ready, and on account of so much rain there is a large per cent not planted. There is, also, some complaint about plants being scarce.

Oats are doing well and promises a larger crop than for the past few years.

Alfalfa is doing well and making a splendid yield, but the weather is not good for cutting the first crop. There is not enough sun-shine to cure as it should be. The price of alfalfa ranges from $12.50 to $16.00 per ton, and with such conditions as these we think the people will plant more each year for there is no doubt that it has more feeding qualities than any other hay grown.

Clover is looking well and will make a fine crop with favorable weather.

The prospects for a good fruit crop are not as good as they were last month.

Horses are very high. Prices ranging from $125.00 to $150.00, and hard to buy at that.

Mules are not as many in number as they were at this time last year and are very high. Prices ranging from $150.00 to $200.00.

Cattle are not so high. Prices ranging from 3 to 4 1/2 cents per pound.

Sheep are doing very well. Prices ranging from 4 1/2 to 6 cents per pound.

Hogs are high. Prices ranging from 6 to 8 cents per pound. There is very little or no complaint of any disease among them.

The price of poultry and eggs have been for the last year, and are still higher than ever known before at this time of year. Prices of eggs ranging from 17 to 20 cents per dozen, and hens and chickens from 12 to 25 cents per pound.

There are good prospects for a good berry crop. There is a full crop of blackberry blooms, and others in proportion.

Hemp looking well. Prices good, ranging from 5 to 6 1/2 cents per pound.

KENTUCKY COVERING ITS FORESTS.

Inventory of the State Product Well Under Way—Individuals are Interested.

Kentucky, which is one of the chief hardwood producing states in the Union, and the first state in the production of yellow poplar, is making good progress in the movement for the preservation of its forests. In 1906, the Legislature enacted the law providing for the State Board of Agriculture, Forestry and Immigration. During the following winter the Board asked and received the co-operation of the United States Forest Service in a study of the forest conditions of the State. This work was begun two years ago and an examination of half area of forest land in the state has been completed. The result of the first year's work, covering the eleven most eastern counties of the state is published in the Kentucky Handbook, 1906-1907. The second report, now in the hands of the State Board of Agriculture, covers forty-eight counties, largely in the coal mining regions of the state. When this investigation is completed Kentucky will have an excellent inventory of its lumber resources.

The manner in which the forestry problem has been approached indicates that the people of the state realize that the ultimate solution of the impending timber scarcity must, for the farmer, depend largely on how he handles his individual timber resources, and that there is no better way than for him to consider the wood-let as a bank account, using the interest which is constantly accruing, but leaving the capital undiminished. Much educational work, however, will be needed to secure this desirable end.

The second report of the Forest Service suggests a forest law. Among its important features is a provision for the appointment of a State Forester. The wisdom of this is evident since only by the appointment of a State Forester can the work in co-operation with the Forest Service be maintained and carried to a successful conclusion. Until such time, however, as the State of Kentucky is ready to assume the management of its own forest problems, the National Service is willing and anxious to co-operate in every way possible for the furtherance of forestry among private owners in Kentucky. In the co-operative investigations of forest resources now in progress, the government spent over $4,000 to duplicate a similar amount appropriated by the state.

Kentucky has always been rich in forest resources, but like many other states has reached the point where the timber will hereafter be produced on a continually decreasing scale, and it is necessary to protect and use carefully the forests which remain.

In 1899 Kentucky cut 734,000,000 board feet of hardwood lumber. In 1907 the cut was 804,908,000 board feet, an increase of only sixteen per cent in the past nine years. In the same period the cut of yellow poplar has fallen off over twentyfour per cent. During the same time the prices of lumber at the mill have advanced on an average of sixty-five per cent, and the demand has increased accordingly.

An Oasis in Tennessee.

The arid State of Tennessee is to have an oasis. The prohibitory law recently passed by the Legislature provides that there cannot be a saloon anywhere within four miles of a school house. It was believed by those who framed the measure that this restriction would be tantamount to an absolute banishment of every liquor store in the Commonwealth.

There has been much studying of Tennessee geography since the law was passed. Maps on which the school houses were clearly indicated have been surveyed with the greatest care, and careful measurements have been made in order to discover if possible a locality which did not come within the terms of proscription.

Now it is announced that one diligent student has found the favored spot. W. P. Conner is the name of the public-spirited gentleman who proposes to establish on the top of a mountain a life saving station for all parched Tennesseans. This particular summit, which bids fair to be the most popular region in the State is situated in Sequatchie county, in the Cumberland range. The nearest school house is well beyond the four-mile limit. The nearest town is McMinnville, eighteen miles away. The enterprising and philanthropic Conner has leased all the territory for a radius of four miles from his proposed drink emporium in order to prevent some prohibitionist, with educational ideals, squatting with desk bench, spelling book and rod within dangerous proximity.

He proposes to run a carriage line to the neighboring towns for the convenience of the thirsty and the advance of his cash register. No doubt later on connection with the Conner oasis will be made by trolley, and pilgrimages will begin from every corner of the State.

In the meantime mountain climbing is likely to become a fad in Tennessee. Conger clubs will be organized. Alpine stocks will be at a premium and a long procession of tourists, eager to enjoy the magnificent view from the summit of McMinnville mountain, will wend its way from Nashville, Chattanooga and other oases.

Nor is the distance of this life-giving spring so remote from the boundaries of Kentucky as to make its existence without promise of relief in case an infatuated people should vote the Bluegrass commonwealth dry.

Mr. Conger, we surmise is on the road to affluence. He will become a booze billionaire. Some day, when Tennessee has regained its sanity, a grateful public will erect a monument to this courageous citizen, and in the annals of history he will live as the one man who made the Tennessee desert bloom like the rose.—Louisville Herald.

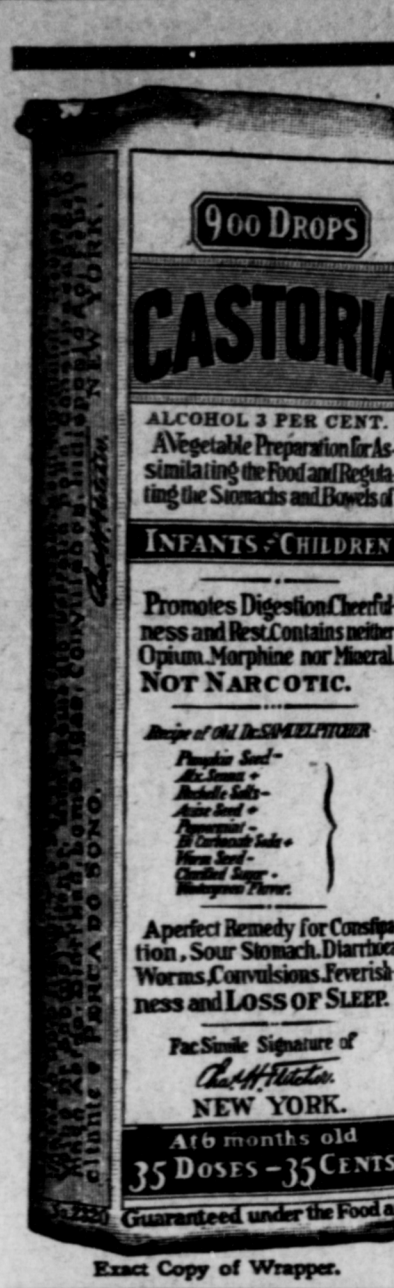

Great Ten Years for The Farmers.

The farmers have never seen in all their history ten such years as the years the Dingley bill has been upon the statute books. What if they have had to pay a little more for clothing and agricultural implements? Have they not had the highest prices in the history of the world? And what did they have under the last "Tariff reform" years? They could buy, if they had money to buy, cheap enough, God knows. The trouble with them was that they had no money. The products of their farms did not sell for enough to pay the cost of production—hogs $2.50 cattle about the same, and horse from $10 to $20 a head, and no buyers—Cedar Rapids Republican.

Kentucky's Greatest Duroc Herd.

It is well worth the time to anyone interested in the rearing of hogs, especially Duroc Jerseys, to visit the hog breeding establishment of Messrs. Bardwell & Barnard, of McHenry, Ky., says the Homestead. Their system of rearing for their hogs is almost ideal. They have them scattered over several farms and only a few in each lot. Their lots contain six or eight acres, half of which are in clover and half in woods. Not more than two sows and litters will be found in any of these lots. This gives the pigs plenty of range and the thrift of their pigs is the best evidence of the advantages of raising pigs in this manner. The firm is enterprising and always ready to buy anything that they think will improve their herd. This plan has been followed up until at the present time they undoubtedly have the best herd of Duroc Jerseys in the Blue Grass State. At the head of herd is Model Top, a two-year-old boar that bids fair to cause trouble in his class this year. He has almost a perfect back, smooth and well balanced all through. He was first at the Kentucky State Fair and third at the Iowa State Fair in 1907, also was in the second prize get of sire herd at the latter show. He comes from a good litter, as one of his litter mates, Golden Model 2d, winner of first at Sioux City last year, and Model Again are both at the head of good Iowa herds. Model Girl, his litter mate, was third at Des Moines. He is backed up by a line of breeding that cannot help but reproduce well. His breeding is a combination of Colonel, Top Notcher and Crimson Wonder families. There is little doubt in our minds but what he will be a great sire. The pigs on the farm sired by him now leave little doubt as to his ability as a sire. Other boars in service are Ohio Chief Banner, a good son of Ohio Chief and Proud Advance Again by Proud Advance. The pigs number over 150 and are sired by their herd boars, with three litters by Prince of Colonels, one litter by High Notcher, others by High Chief, Tennessee Colonel and McNeil's Model. Considering numbers, we have not seen as good a bunch of pigs this season. Nothing will be left undone to make this one of the greatest Duroc Jersey herds in the United States. With the fine equipment and the good foundation that they already have, the big end of the battle is fought. Their show herd is being fitted by that veteran fitter, Mr. James Conk, and if we mistake not, hogs from this herd will be hard competition in nearly every class at the fall shows. We will have more to say about this farm later on.

GOOD WHOLESOME FRESH EGGS.

Uncomparable as a Means of Health as Well as of Sustenance.

Some people contend, says the Boston Cooking School Magazine, that an egg is an egg. So it is. But to ascertain its true value take a fresh-laid egg, weigh it first, then weigh a cold storage, or, as we say, a "store egg," and note the result. The difference in weight is an illustration of the difference in food value.

Let us take a fresh egg, and see how many different practical uses we can put it to, and first of all, in a medical way. To the white of an egg, shaken in half a glass of cold water until light and foamy, add the juice of half a lemon, fill the glass with water, sweeten to taste, and you have a delightful refreshing drink known as and called "albumen water."

There is nothing better, although not generally known, than the white of an egg for burns. You simply separate the white and yolk, and put the white on the scald or burn. Should the burn be on the fingers, wrap each one separately, with the white of egg and old linen. The white of egg forms a coating on the burnt skin; it excludes the air, and thus stops the dreadful pain.

The white of one egg, beaten light, then mixed with the juice of half a lemon, without sugar, will relieve a cough and hoarseness.

White of egg is an excellent remedy in extreme cases of bowel trouble, especially dysentery. Beat it fairly light with or without a little powdered sugar, always using a pinch of salt, and take it in one or two swallows. It tends to lessen inflammation by forming transient coating to the intestines, so that Mother Nature may proceed on her way to health again. This is food, as well as medicine, and even a child may be given many doses in a day.

When tired, a raw egg is most excellent, particularly when the appetite is poor. Have the egg cold; break the shell and drop gently into a small glass tumbler. When ready to take, prick the yolk with the point of a clean needle, and swallow it quickly. If you use wine, put a teaspoonful in the glass first, then the egg, and take in one mouthful. You may think this impossible at first, but it is easy enough after a few attempts. Always close the mouth as soon as the egg is in it, throw the head back, and it is all over. When putting up jellies, and the tumbler lids are old, cut round pieces of paper, larger than the glasses, of course, moisten these thoroughly with unbeaten white of egg, and fit over the top. Tie with string, and when dry, sponge the paper with a little cold water, and you have an airtight cover, stiff as parchment. It will last for years.

In making a fruit pie, brush the lower crust with unbeaten white of egg to prevent the juice from making it soft, as is often the case.

To prepare an egg for an invalid, put it in boiling water. Set it on the back of the range for ten minutes, then open into a hot egg cup and serve immediately. Another way for those who prefer to drink their food, as is often the case during convalescence, is to beat an egg very light, put it in a pretty cup and fill the cup with beef tea, mutton broth or hot milk, seasoning to individual taste. One egg added to a bowl of stewed meat gravy or drawn butter sauce is a great improvement.

Wireless Tower 600 Feet High.

The Government will this week call for bids for the construction of the greatest wireless station that the world has ever known, to be built around a tower of concrete that will be one of the tallest structures on earth, and will stand in a class all by itself.

The station is to be guaranteed to send out wireless messages to a distance three times as great as that reached by the plants at present in existence. The thing is being brought about through the Navy Department because of its desire to reach its ships at sea. The machinery must be guaranteed to deliver messages within a radius of 3,000 miles. To-day wireless can be depended on to reach no further than 1,000 miles and the deliveries are uncertain.

A Pittsburg firm was awarded the contract, and the machinery has already been built. Then the Government found it necessary to build a tower in proportion to the machinery. 600 feet with a base of 50 feet diameter tapering to 8 feet at the top.

The station is to be located in Rock Creek Park, in the District of Columbia. It will be the tallest structure in America outside of New York there being but two buildings in that city that are taller and bit the Eiffel Tower in Paris that surpasses it, and this is merely a skeleton structure. It will tower 45 feet above the Washington monument.

The expense of the installation will be about $300,000.

The Expense in the Hog Business.

The principal expense in the hog business is the feed. They can be cheaply housed, they are made ready for market about as quick as a crop of grain can be sown and put into market, and can be handled and cared for at very little cost. The greatest profit derived from the hog business is where the pigs have been kept on the jump from the time of farrowing until they are ready for market. That is, they are supplied with all the feed that they can conveniently digest and assimilate. It is then a question of cheapening the feed without deterring the rapid advance of the pig. As all grain feeds are high yet, they cannot be dispensed with entirely in producing pork. Plant food is the cheapest feed that can be worked into the growing pig. This is where clover and alfalfa come to the feeder's aid in cheapening the price of feed, by using as large proportions of this character of feed as can be done without lessening the growth of the pigs.

THE WORLD'S LARGEST DIAMOND.

The Story of the Cutting and Final Disposition of the Culliman Gem.

For 12 years the Excelsior diamond enjoyed its primacy but on January 25, 1905 the greatest diamond known to the world was found in open-workings No. 2 of the Premier Mine, in the Transvaal Colony, South Africa, and from the finding to the cutting of this magnificent stone and its final disposal its history is a most romantic one.

The day's work at the mine was over, and Frederick Wells, the surface manager, was making his usual round. Glancing along one side of the deep excavation his eye suddenly caught the gleam of a brilliant object far up on the bank. He lost no time in climbing up to the spot, where he had noted the giant of light. He had not been mistaken—it was really a brilliant crystal. He tried to pull it out with his fingers, and as this proved impossible he sought to pry it out with the blade of his penknife. To his surprise the knife blade broke without causing the stone to yield. Confident now that the crystal must be a very large one, he dug out the earth about it, thinking for a moment that contrary to all experience in the mine, the stone might be attached to a piece of primitive rock. When he discovered that this was not the case he began to doubt that the object was really a diamond. He said afterward:

"When I took a good look at the stone stuck there in the side of the pit it suddenly flashed across me that I had gone insane—that the whole thing was imaginary. I knew it could not be a diamond. All at once another solution dawned upon me. The boys often play jokes on one another. Some practical joker, thought I, has planted this huge chunk of glass here for me to find it. He thinks I will make a fool of myself by bringing it into the office in a great state of excitement, and the story will be told far and wide in South Africa."

Determined to test the stone on the spot, before proceeding further, Wells rubbed off the dirt from one of its faces with his finger, and soon convinced himself that it was not a lump of glass, but a diamond crystal, apparently of exceptional whiteness and purity. With the aid of a larger blade of his knife he finally succeeded in prying out the stone, and bore it away with him to the office of the mine. Here it was cleaned and, to the astonishment of all, was found to have a weight of 3,024 carats more than three times that of any other diamond that has been discovered. Before many hours had passed the telegraph carried tidings to all parts of the world that the greatest diamond of this or any other age had been brought to light. Mr. Wells is said to have received a reward of $10,000 from the company for his discovery.

T. M. Cullinan, founder and Chairman of the Premier Company, and one of the great prize winners in the lottery of the South African speculation, named the diamond after himself; others have called it the Premier, and several different names have been proposed.

Waterson's Tribute to Lincoln.

Born as lowly as the Son of God, in a hovel; reared in penury squalor, with no gleam of light or fair surrounding; without grace, actual or acquired; without name or fame or official training; it was reserved for this strange being, late in life, to be snatched from obscurity, raised to supreme command at a supreme moment, and entrusted with the destiny of a nation.

"The great leaders of his party, the most experienced and accomplished public men of the day, were made to stand aside; were sent to the rear whilst this fantastic figure was led by unseen hands to the front and given the reins of power. It is immaterial whether we were for or against him; wholly immaterial. That, during four years, carrying with them such a weight of responsibility, as the world never witnessed before, he filled the vast space allotted him in the eyes and actions of mankind is to say that he was inspired of God, for nowhere else could he have acquired the wisdom and the virtue. "Where did Shakespeare get his genius? Where did Mozart get his music? Whose hand smote the lyre of the Scottish ploughman, and stayed the life of the German priest? God, and God alone; and as surely as these were raised up by God, in-spired by God, was Abraham Lincoln; and a thousand years hence, no drama, no tragedy, no epic poem will be filled with greater wonder, or be followed by mankind with deeper feeling than that which tells the story of his life and death."

HUMAN ANIMAL LOVED HUMAN FLESH.

Cannibal King of Fiji Ate Nine Hundred Tender and Juicy Females.

Anthropologists, whose study is man and his prehistoric ancestors, believe that all existing races of men in a wild or savage state at times ate one another, and in modern man science sees traces in his thoughts and habits of ancient cannibalism. Fiji Islanders, in the time of Captain Cook the renowned explorer, were the fiercest man-eaters that modern history knows anything about.

Some of the South Sea Islanders and Africans ate their enemies as a religious form in order to absorb their courage, strength and longevity. But the Fijians, a handsome race of human gourmands and gourmets, epicures, if you please, of both friends and enemies. Their greatest praise of a delicacy was to say that it was as tender as a dead man. They were even so fastidious as to dislike the taste of whites, and preferred the flesh of women to men. The upper arm, thigh saddle, liver and brain were their choicest roasts and tidbits. Noble human flesh was too precious for women to eat.

At the King's feast enemies were always upon his table. Slaves were stilled and systematically fattened for market. Tender and juicy females were often roasted alive and eaten at once. But tough old warriors were gamed and softened until "high" before cooking.

King Udre-Andre is said, according to Lord Avebury to have eaten 900 himself, being too greedy and ambitious to share the roasts.

None of this could be laid to lack of food. At one feast to the god of war were seen "10,000 yam potatoes, six to twelve pounds each; thirty great turtles, 150 giant oysters, as big as washbowls, &c and many puddings—one twenty-one feet in circumference." Man meat was called quaka bulaca, which means "long pig." Family wars, feuds and disorders were as bad as in some respectable modern families. It was against the law for brothers, sisters first cousins and fathers and sons-in-laws to speak to one another or eat from the same dish.

Hot Weather Don't.

Don't try to keep your horse power up with meats. Loaf along under low pressure alongside the vegetable wogan.

Keep your wind shield up at night. Sleeping in a draft kills the engine about as regularly as anything known.

Never mind the speed records for a while. Stop in the shade now and then, make frequent repairs, and ride sitting up.

Don't try to carry too much gasoline. Just enough in the tank to keep the spark alive, and saturate the parts now and then with a soft drink.

Don't worry. Nothing is going to break. You are not going to run into anything. Your tires are all right.

VOLUMINOUS RECORD IN PARISH CASE

Is Finally Sent to the Court of Appeals for Review

On Friday afternoon the voluminous transcript in the appeal of Jas. H. Parrish to the Kentucky Court of Appeals was expressed to Frankfort says the Hancock Clarion. In the record of the latest trial of Parrish in Hawesville, when he was given a sentence of five years in the penitentiary for irregularities in the Owensboro Savings Bank & Trust Co., and upon which he seeks a reversal by the higher court.

Special Judge Kelly, who tried the case, was not in Hawesville. The Owensboro attorneys for the defense Slack and Wells, were here, and the whole proceedings were as if occurring May 15, at which time all of these gentlemen were here pursuant to an order of the court allowing this extension of time to prepare the record. The official stenographer had not yet completed the transcript and a further extension to the latter date was granted.

The latter part of last week the Parrish attorneys got very busy in asking for a further extension of 60 days. This request was made to the court of appeals and was on the idea that the stenographer might not be ready when the limit of time was reached, which would have been on June 8. This extension was granted but was subsequently found to be unnecessary, since the record arrived in Frankfort before that date.

The appeal record in this case is an immense thing, and is bound into three volumes. It is by far the largest that ever went before the appellate court from Hancock county and consists of 783 pages. For each page the stenographer receives 25 cents or a total of $195.75. In addition to this he received $5 per day during the trial, or $113 making a total of $308.75 which are the costs to be borne by Hancock county. This is so because of the fact that Mr. Parrish made an affidavit that he was a pauper.

Contrary to the Owensboro papers, who insist that the Court of Appeals adjourns the middle of June for its summer vacation that court is in session until Saturday July 3rd.

In the meantime Mr. Parrish doesn't appear to be greatly inconvenienced while behind prison bars, and is getting from the experience a certain degree of satisfaction. He continues to have a great many visitors and receives his usual large mails. One of the visitors during the past week was Mr. C. P. Polk, a member of the jury which convicted Parrish, and who resides at Skillman. Mr. Polk and Mr. Parrish had long known each other, and were friends—in fact they are friends now, if we are to judge by the lengthy conversation they held on this occasion. The trial was touched upon among other things, but there was no ill feeling exhibited by either of the parties.

A Weed Not a Flower.

Frank Work, a well-known New York millionaire, whose daughter married a foreign highflyer, declares that international marriage should be a hanging offense if he had his way. "I have only contempt," says he, "for these helpless, hopeless, lifeless titled men who cross the ocean to carry off the very flower of our womanhood."

Of course, Frank is right in thinking well of his own daughter who was "carried off," and in his contempt of the foreign "Its," whose only possessions are a threadbare title and a blanket mortgage on their ancestral halls, but he is 'way off his base classing as the very flower of our womanhood the silly American girl who marries the refuse of foreign nobility for the sake of a title.

There is no creature on earth quite so useless, quite so much a weed, instead of a flower, as the average daughter of our millionaire families. She toils not neither does she spin. She has no responsibilities. She has no labors save those of keeping in the van as to dress and jewels. To swash around in society, and finally land a title to go with her diamonds and satins comprises her life ambition.

In fact in uselessness and general shallowness, she is a fit mate for the foreign specimen of evaporated manhood whom she finally purchases and leads to the altar.

The transplanting of many of our millionaire "flowers of womanhood" would be a positive blessing to America, in every way, were it not for the millions of dollars they take with them, and our lawyers even bringing back some of this money, through service in divorce and other scandalous affairs.

Of course, there are a few exceptions. There are a few Helen Goulds. There are a few rich American girls who marry titled foreigners, and are a credit to this country and their husbands country. But they are the exceptions which prove the rule that, save as to the sordid dollars, this country loses nothing by the marriage of our millionairesses to the titled paupers from abroad. Certain it is that the flower of our womanhood misses nothing.

The flower of our womanhood is the conscientious, loving, laboring, child-raising mother and house wife, and the girl whose aim is to be such.

ALFALFA WHEAT WILL CAUSE REVOLUTION

Experiments Proving Successful And Quality of Bread Resulting Most Palatable.

A remarkable story comes from Omaha that threatens to make the wheat market stand on its hind legs with excitement if it is ever confirmed. It is said that Creighton University experiments have recently been made with alfalfa as a substitute for the kinds of grains in the making of bread. The experiments are reported as proving eminently successful and the quality of bread resulting most palatable and nutritious. The alfalfa is especially selected for its quality, and after the leaves and portions of the stems have been ground in a mill, it is bolted. From this process comes a meal almost as fine as flour, and of a rich, brown color. By means of a bleaching process it is finally brought to a creamy tint, which in the loaf that is baked presents a most pleasing and appetizing appearance. Varieties of eatables, including gems, pancakes, and other familiar composition of white flour, have been made from the new meal with gratifying result to the student discoverers. When it is remembered that two, three and even four crops of alfalfa may be grown in a single year, the possibilities of this new food product will be realized. Gentlemen like Mr. Patton, who attempt to corner the wheat market will now find themselves faced with a rival and substitute that may render all their efforts abortive. Hitherto as a most valuable crop for cattle food, if the Creighton University Alfalfa Club makes good on its alleged discovery it will have marked a new epoch, and added to the world's food supply a practically inexhaustible source upon which to draw.

An Acquired Character.

The subject of this sketch was born in poverty and the sunny South. Even as a lad he had masterful ways about him and displayed a spirit of sturdy independence.

One day when he was about 8 years old he was guilty of disobedience to parental authority and received a sound spanking.

Then he took his elementary spelling book and first reader and hurried off to school.

"Benny," said the teacher, observing that he was standing up near the door, "sit down."

"I won't!" sullenly exclaimed the boy.

"You won't?" said the teacher in surprise. "Why not?" "Cause I can't!" roared Benny. An he didn't.

That boy, now a man of mature years, is known to fame as Hon. Benjamin R. Tillman, Senator from South Carolina, and even the Vice President of the United States can't make him sit down.—Chicago Tribune

FRIDAY, JUNE 18.

The hot weather seems to have no appreciable effect on the special session of Congress.

We see no special reason for a campaign in favor of the constitutional amendment for good roads. Everybody is for it.

Why should our government act as policeman for Venezuela? If the President of that unhappy republic has no sufficient public sentiment behind him to retain the reins of government, let him be dethroned. If they want Castro, he is the man for them to have. It seems to us that uncle Sam is engaged in very small business when he undertakes to weld the big stick in an effort to dictate the Presidency of the South American republic.

In the exchange which is being made for United States Senators upon the only question which divides the two great political parties, the Republicans have all the better of the trade. In return for La Follette, Cummings, Beveridge and Deliver, we get the senators from Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina and Florida. The South is surely coming around for protection. She could never have seen the force of the argument in favor of this policy had not the Republican party leaders attempted to lower the tariff on southern producing articles. It sometimes takes a long time for people to get their eyes open, and indeed it often requires that personal interest be touched in order to bring about an awakening. This special session of congress has been an eye-opener to the Southern people, and is destined to change the political line-up for years to come.

I another column we publish from an Evansville paper a news item concerning the movement on the part of the L. & N. Railroad to bridge the Ohio River at Shawneetown, Ill. This seems to bear out our story published in our last issue concerning the intention of the L. & N., to make the M. H. & E., part of a great trunk line railroad extending to St. Louis. The building of the Panama Canal is already being felt in all of the Southern States. It no doubt brought about the building of this line of railroad, which is destined to open up the richest coal fields in Western Kentucky, and will also be the means of developing some of the finest agricultural lands which have hitherto been unproductive, because of the distance from railroad facilities, with which to reach the markets of the world. The South is just beginning to feel the quick impulse of commerce and is upon the eve of the greatest prosperity she has ever known. She is just now where the North and East sections were twenty years ago, and needs a protective tariff for all of her products. Years ago when Samuel J. Randall, in many respects the greatest Democrat the north ever produced, stood out for protection, at least to his own industries, he was a very much abused man and the Southern Democrats were his most bitter critics. To-day although Samuel J. Randall has long since passed over the river and joined the people of another world, his position at that time has been approved by the action of the Democrats in Congress from every Southern State, during the present special session.

The re-organization of the Hartford Commercial Club is a move in the right direction and one which we have been urging for several years. The very best selections have been made for officers from among our business men and there is no doubt but what this organization, if properly backed by the citizens, will do much toward making Hartford the best town in the Green River country. The City Council should act in conjunction with the Commercial Club for every movement looking to the betterment of the town in every particular. The Council has been able recently to make a splendid arrangement with the Railroad Company, whereby $800.00 or $1000.00 worth of grading on streets approaching the depot site has been saved to the town. The railroad company using the dirt for fills to be made at the foot of these streets, which when completed will be the most ideal depot grounds to be found anywhere. We suggest to the Commercial Club that it take up with the railroad company the character of depot which is proposed for Hartford, with a view of obtaining a building which will be a pride to the town. Hartford deserves a first class depot. It is the county seat and will be the shipping point and the passenger station for a large section of country. The town might be willing to subscribe a liberal amount in order to induce the Railroad company to put up a much better building than a town of the size of Hartford might ordinarily expect. At least it is worth trying. If a ten thousand dollar depot could be secured it would be the very best advertisement for Hartford which she could possibly obtain. Let the town through its Commercial Club take the railroad company into its confidence about this matter, as well as upon all questions which may effect the interest of both, and we are sure from present indications that if Hartford will show the proper spirit and friendship to the new railroad, she will be repaid many times over by assistance from the company in many of our projects for the upbuilding of city.

WOMAN'S CLUB WELCOMES R. R.

Special Program Rendered in Honor of Its Coming.

Scholarly Address by Mrs. J. S. Glenn, Pictures a Brilliant Future for Hartford.

The Woman's Club of Hartford which is made up of some of the most talented women of this section of Kentucky, has long been noted for its intellectual treats to the members and visitors from time to time when they gather for their monthly meetings. Last week the club gave a meeting in honor of the entering of the M. H. & E. Railroad into our town. It was a special railroad program. The principal paper on this occasion was read by Mrs. J. S. Glenn as a welcome address and dedicated to the new railroad. It was responded to in a fitting manner by Mrs. George Feagan, wife of the resident engineer, who has built the line of road. Mrs. Z. W. Griffin read a paper which was highly entertaining on the advantages and disadvantages of the railroad. By an unanimous vote the club requested the publication of Mrs. Glenn's address, which follows: "A flood of thoughts sweep over me that fills my eyes with tears." This has been to me a week of sweet reminiscences and fond recollections. Your committee's request opened sunny memories, sacred portals, and I wandered up and down her corridors communing with those whose wisdom and energy have made Hartford loved and honored at home and abroad. Men whose love and loyalty never for one moment swerved from the upbuilding of our little city. They dreamed and made possible this our golden day. Such bold and enterprising spirits as Harrison Taylor, H. D. McHenry, J. E. Pendleton, E. C. Hubbard, W. C. Chapman, Z. W. Griffin, W. F. Gregory, and J. W. Ford strived and brought to us much of the prestige we enjoy to-day, both commercial and intellectual in planting a spirit of progressiveness in our citizenship that augurs much for our future.

"A great wave of commercial and industrial progress seems to be touching the most isolated spots of our country; and that city or town that does not shake herself and move with the great impetus of this onward march will be lost in the race for distinction and renown. But Hartford, true to the spirit of her makers, with a century of intellectual prestige resting as a halo about her brow, faced the inevitable. She must either ride the crest of this great industrial wave, or be lost in the dim fancies of a glorious past. The names of her illustrious doctors, statesmen, lawyers, and educators could but bring the blush of shame, if she hesitated, for hesitancy meant retreat. But with that spirit of enterprise that has always characterized her citizenship, she breathed deep the spirit of progress and this afternoon we call home one of the most progressive little cities in our State. And upon this great wave of material advancement, railroads are touching every section of our country, and Hartford after a half century of disappointment to-day realizes the dreams of those who builded better than they knew and the privilege of reaping the rich harvest of their cherished dreams is ours. May we be worthy of the heritage we have received, and facing the future, build wisely and well for those who may rise to call us blessed.

"Our visions are the visions of the enthusiast. May we be able to temper our enthusiasm with the wisdom of the seer and may the luster of our dear old Hartford grow brighter and brighter as the years pass by. But the commercial and industrial benefits are not the only assets that have and will accrue from the coming of the M. H. and E. R. R. With the very first invasion of our city by this advancing host, whose watchword is 'Progress' came handsome men and beautiful women. The young strangers with the freedom of our hearts and homes, wandered piping through our streets, beckoning to our fair maidens, and like Minnehaha, some have followed, leaving all things for these strangers.

"Every avenue of thought and action has been touched and broadened by this colony transplanted here for the past two years. But to the Women's Club came the sweetest and tenderest influence that seems possible in the guise of a dainty, brown-eyed matron, whose very presence elevates and delights, so without effort or ostentation has she stolen into our lives and hearts that her life, her cheery manners her optimism, her love for us will leave an impression on this club that will influence as long as the club exists.

"In the name of the citizens of the county and of Hartford, I welcome the M. H. and E. May the development and wealth of our country be the marvel of this decade. In the name of the men whose dream of prosperity and progress is realized in this road I say may the M. H. and E. live long and prosper. In the name of the Women's Club to whom it has given for so short a time the sweet presence and the stimulating influence of Mrs. Feagan, I say welcome, thrice welcome, and as your great drive-wheel of progress carries this lovely woman and her honored husband from us, please find them a place on the map, but do not let her forget Hartford or the Women's Club. Welcome! Welcome! Welcome!"

"The Scenes in the Union Depot," a Musical Comedy, will be given by the Lady Maccabees next Tuesday night, June 22, at the court house. There will be everything that goes to make up a real union Depot scene—Baggage Man, Ticket Agent, Train-caller, Lunch Counter—every character from Madam Patti to the scrub-woman of the depot will be on hand. Uncle Josh and Aunt Sara will take the "keers" and Carrie Nation will be there. A bevy of popular girls have been selected to give a series of beautiful drills.

Come and enjoy a good laugh. The first train called in the New Union Depot at the Court House on Tuesday night, June 22. Don't miss the fun.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank our many friends and relatives for their kindness to us during the sickness and death of our dear daughter, Tina, whom the Lord took from us the 17th of May, 1909. We especially want to extend our heartfelt thanks to our children, who were so good to leave their work and homes to come to help and be with us in our sad bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Stevens.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES OF INTEREST TO MANY.

Board of Education held Session at Court House Monday all Members Friends.

Mr. Sherman Taylor of Rob Roy, returned from the State Normal at Bowling Green, last Saturday. He will teach at Ricketts School the coming session.

W. C. Ashley, chairman of educational division No. 1, will contract for the construction of the school house at Sarvis Hill, Monday, July 8th.

A. C. Baughn, chairman educational division No. 3, will let the contract for the construction of a school house at Dundee, Monday July 8th.

J. L. Brown, chairman educational division No. 6, will let the contract for the construction of a school house at Broadway Mines, on Friday, June 25th.

Misses Maud Shultz and Bessie Renfrow and Mr. Joe Loyal, Narrows, Ky., have all returned from a six months stay in the West Kentucky Normal school, at Bowling Green, Ky.

On Saturday, June 25th, Educational Division Boards will select teachers for the various sub-districts at the following places: Viz: Educational division No. 1, Westerfield (Bells Run) Educational division No. 2, Fordsville Educational division No. 3, Sulphur springs; Educational division No. 4, Renfrow, South Sulphur Springs; Educational division No. 5, Green Brier; Educational Division No. 6, Centertown.

All of these meetings will be called to order at 9 o'clock a. m. As the contracts for the schools are to be made at these meetings, it will be convenient for the teachers to be present.

Miss Ruth Hammons, of Horton, Ky., is visiting friends in St. Louis. She will return to teach again this fall.

The Superintendent and Board of Examiners will be at Fordsville to-day and to-morrow for the purpose of holding the regular County examination for the convenience of the teachers in that part of the county.

The following sub-districts will be furnished with two teachers by the various educational division boards: Sub-district No. 1, educational division No. 2, (Magan); sub-district No. 6, educational division No. 5, (Taylor Mines) sub-district No. 14, educational division No. 5, (McHenry) sub-district No. 16, educational division No. 5, (Williams); sub-district No. A, (Hayti).

The division boards are required to elect both the principal and the assistant in the above named schools, each of which must have a certificate of qualification from the County Board of Education. The division board will also indicate the division of salary between the principal and assistant of these schools. A failure to comply with these requirements of the law will result in the holding up of the public money.

Miss Blanche Van Meter has completed a course in the Southern Normal School and will teach the fall school at Jubilee, sub-district No. 12, educational division No. 5.

R. P. Likens, Manda, the new chairman of educational division No. 4, was present at the meeting of the board for the first time Monday.

Supt. T. J. Coats has been assigned to Ohio County by State Supt. Crabbe, for a three days speaking tour beginning at Fordsville June 28. The other dates and places will be published later.

At the meeting of the County Board of Education June 14, the following business was transacted: S. T. Williams was allowed $12.50 for furnishing a stove to Hickory District. A committee composed of F. D. Baughn and Supt. DeWeese, was authorized to investigate the proposition submitted by the citizens of Concord school district for the building of a house in this district and make such arrangements as in their judgment they deem best. A claim of $4.00 was allowed J. M. Porter for surveying the school house lot in Ricketts school district and writing the deed for same.

The sale of the old house and lot in Ricketts school district was confirmed and a deed made to the purchaser, the consideration being $36.50.

The ballot boxes for the school elections were ordered to be sent out by the Superintendent through the chairman of the educational divisions of the sub-districts.

The County Election commissioners are directed to mail out the notices of the appointment to the school election officers.

J. A. Bellamy was directed not to let a contract for the building of a house in sub-district No. 11 (Jones) educational division No. 2, the board deeming the funds insufficient to justify the construction of this house.

The house in sub-district No. 17, (Rob Roy) educational division No. 4, was located on the land of Henry Leach, near the intersection of the Beaver Dam and Cromwell roads.

R. P. Likens was directed to take up and complete the work left by the former chairman, J. W. Taylor, in educational division No. 4.

Richard Plummer was authorized to contract for a well in sub-district No. 2, educational division No. 5.

W. C. Ashley was authorized to contract for the repair of the well in Alexandra sub-district No. 8; educational division No. 1.

The Board then adjourned to meet July 26th, 1909.

The action of the school board at its last meeting will reduce the cost of holding elections to a minimum. The distribution of the ballot boxes through the chairman and through them to the sub-district trustees in which elections are to be held the mailing out of the ballots to these sub-district trustees by the county clerk and the mailing of the notices to the election officers by the County Election Commissioners will cost only a trifle and will result in a very great saving to the county.

The Ohio County Medical Society has arranged to have a noted lecturer, Dr. Simpson, of Louisville, in Hartford on the 5th of July. He will lecture at the court hall. The Medical Society is doing this for the benefit of the general public. In order to properly disseminate the valuable information which this lecture will contain, they are very anxious that every school teacher in the county shall be present. The lecture is free. The general public also is invited. This is a very commendable undertaking and the teachers should show their appreciation of this effort intended to improve them with their presence.

Trustee's Sale

In the District Court of the United States for the western district of Kentucky—Owensboro division.

In the matter of Jasper S. Reynolds bankrupt.

As trustee of the above estate, I will on Friday, the 2nd day of July, 1909 at 1 o'clock p. m., in front of Commercial Hotel on Main street in Fordsville, Ohio County, Ky., sell at public auction to the highest and best bidders the following described property, to-wit:

1. A house and lot in Fordsville, Ohio County, Kentucky, consisting of a house and one acre of ground, bounded on the North by Ed Strother; on the East by Hartford Street, on the South by J. W. Cheek; on the West by the Brown property.

2. A house and lot in Fordsville, Ohio County, Ky., bounded as follows: Beginning at a stone, J. R. Walker's N. E. corner; thence running in a South-westerly direction with Walker's line 108 feet to a stone; thence in a South-easterly direction 129 feet to a stone; thence in a North-easterly direction 100 feet to a stone on Sycamore Street thence 117 feet to the beginning.

3. One house and lot in Fordsville, Ohio county, Kentucky, situated on the East side of Walnut Street and bounded as follows: Beginning at a stone in the center of said street, and corner to Morris Wilson; thence with said street S. 53 W. 96 feet to a stone, corner to John Wadding; thence W. 37 E. 173 feet to a stone; thence N. 53 E. 134 feet to a stone in Morris Wilson's line, 35 feet West of his corner; thence with his line N. 52 W. 173 to the beginning, containing one-half acre, and being the same conveyed to J. S. Reynolds by T. W. Brown and wife, Feb. 27th, 1905; as shown by deed of record in Ohio county Clerk's office in Deed Book No. 15, at page 15.

Also a number of judgments, notes and accounts belonging to said estate. The first mentioned house and lot will be sold $1,000.00 cash, and the balance in six months; the other two lots will be sold on a credit of six months. The purchasers will be required to execute bond with good security for all deferred payments, bearing interest from date of sale with a lien retained upon the property as additional security; but all purchasers will be given the privilege of paying cash if they so desire, or they may pay the bonds before maturity by paying interest upon same to date of payment.

The judgments, notes and accounts will be sold for cash.

All of said property will be sold free of incumbrances, and the liens, if any, on said property, will be transferred to the proceeds of the sale. All sales will be subject to the approval of the court.

YANCEY L. MOSELEY, Trustee.

G. B. LIKENS, Attorney. 474.

Notice of Application for Pardon. Bert Skaggs, who was convicted of Housebreaking in the Circuit Court in Ohio county, at the March term, 1896, of said court, will ask the Governor for Pardon, and all who object will notify the Governor stating in writing their objection.

It is an exhaustive discourse on the subject and is worth the while of anyone to read and study it.

Fordsville Lodge No. 600, F. & A. M., gave a delightful banquet last Saturday evening and conferred the Master Mason degree on six fellow crafts. The work was put on in a splendid manner after which the members of the lodge and invited guests sat down to an elaborate banquet, the menu being interspersed with bright enjoyable toasts. Messrs. Simon B. Smith, G. G. Lamus, and Ed Serother had charge of the program. J. W. Hale, Ollie Wilson and C. I. Harder were the reception committee. They put forth every effort to make the banquet enjoyable and their expectations were fully realized.

The track laying on the M. H. & E. line has reached a point about half way between Centertown and Green River, and will reach Green river next week, unless some unforeseen accident prevents. The boarding cars were removed to Centertown from Hartford last Monday and Hartford became only a way side station. The pay car came down from Louisville Wednesday and there was great rejoicing among the men who have been laboring in the construction gang. Many of them were so elated over receiving considerable amount of money to spend that they forgot to go to work the following day, and the Company may be inconvenienced for a few days until their places can be filled.

Messrs. Rowan Holbrook, E. W. Cooper and Mike Crahan went to Garfield Monday to arrange for locating a rock crusher, which belongs to the Hartford Stone and Construction Company and which was operated on Rough river a few miles above town last fall. The new location will be near Garfield on a tract of land belonging to the company and which offers a splendid grade of limestone in abundance with no soil to remove before quarrying. The stone for Hartford streets will be crushed at this point and it is hoped that deliveries may be commenced by the first of September. The point at which the crusher will be located is 48 miles from Hartford and a permanent rock crushing plant will be established, prepared to furnish stone, screenings and building stone. The rock in this quarry has been used for building purposes in Breckenridge county for a great many years and is suitable for concrete work, ballast etc. Mr. Crahan, an experienced contractor and stone workman, who is a member of the Company, will be in charge of the plant.

Delightful Entertainment.

Mrs. Hubert Coffman and class of music students gave a most delightful entertainment at West Point Baptist church last Saturday evening. The program which was tastefully arranged and admirably rendered consisted of music, instrumental and vocal, declamations and recitations. The class, which consists of children and young ladies, has been trained only a short while by Mrs. Coffman but each acquitted herself in a most enviable way. Mrs. Coffman is a musician of rare accomplishment. She renders the most difficult instrumental music fluently and has a voice of rare culture and sweetness.

Members of the local class of vocalists ably assisted in rendering the splendid program. The program rendered is as follows.

Invocation—Rev. L. W. Tichenor.

Organ Solo, "Hilarity March"—Ida Coffman.

Recitation, "Welcome"—Orpha Bell.

Quartette, "Where the Sweet Kentucky Flows"—Miss Rander, Mrs. Coffman, Messrs. Every and Brown.

Recitation, "An Old Maid's Prayer,"—Annie Everyly.

Organ Solo, "Paraisula Valse"—Louisa Coffman.

Vocal Duet, "Echoes of my Rocky Mountain Home"—Eva Brown, Orpha Bell.

Organ Solo, "Song of the Mountain Brook"—Annie Everyly.

Recitation, "Mud Pies"—Louisa Coffman.

Vocal Duet, "Wild Ash Deer"—Mrs. Coffman, Miss Everyly.

Organ Solo, "My First Waltz"—Mabyn Rander.

Recitation, I Ain't 'goin to cry no more"—Eva Brown.

Organ Solo, "After the Shower"—Mrs. F. O. Coffman.

Vocal "Pianissimo Lullaby"—Mrs. H. O. Coffman.

Organ Solo, "Paul and Virginia Waltz"—Orpha Bell.

Quartette, "Drifting to Dreamland,"—Messrs. Rander, Messrs. Every and Brown.

Organ Solo, "The First Violet,"—Eva Brown.

Recitation "I want a Piece of Cake,"—Mabyn Rander.

Vocal Solo, "The Gypsy Trail,"—Louisa Coffman.

Recitation, "Music"—Mary Rander.

CENTRAL GROVE.

June 16—Mr. Robert Loney, who has been suffering from cancer for the past several months, is no better.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Rowe, of Paducah are visiting relatives in and near this community.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brunton, Williams Mines, spent Sunday and Sunday night at Mr. D. M. Parks.

Misses Lee and Ruth Tichenor entertained a few of their friends Friday night. It was quite an enjoyable affair.

Messrs. Loney Hoover, Clarence Barnard, and Trimble Pendleton, Hartford, attended Sunday School here Sunday.

Mr. Moore Paducah is visiting friends in this community. Messrs. N. P. Brown and V. A. Bishop, McHenry visited Mr. C. L. Loney recently.

In Memory of Rev. Morton.

The sad intelligence of the death of the Rev. T. M. Morton of Livermore has just reached me. Though I had not been associated with Brother Morton for several years and had not seen him for six years I held him as one of my dearest friends. I love him as I love a brother, who that knew him did not love him! There was nothing unclean in that man. Though you turned his soul inside out there was not to be found a spot or a blemish about it. Pure, lofty, noble, generous, yes he was generous to a fault.

What Christian enterprise in his field of labor has not been liberally contributed to from his purse. He was zealous, he was enthusiastic, He did nothing by halves. When he asked his congregation for a contribution for any charitable enterprise he always led the contribution with a more liberal gift than any body else.

He laid down a business that was paying him $1,500.00 a year to enter the ministry, and he often had the care of churches that were not self supporting.

But I will not write a "Memorial" I wanted to drop just a word and a tear to a memory that is so sweet to me. A memory that carries me back to days when I had not known sorrow in its essence. A memory that enables me to live in fancy, for a moment, in the bliss of other days and other associations, but they are not dead, there is no death of the religious.

They have passed over the dark and silent stream to await in sweet repose the call of Prince Immanuel and we shall meet them and greet them and know them even as we are known.

To the bereaved companions I desire to say you have the condolence and sympathy of one who has recently drunk of the same bitter cup to its dregs.

G. T. T. Simmons Ky., June 11, 1909.

Notice.

All persons indebted to the estate of C. R. Campbell deceased will please settle at once, and all persons having claims against said estate, will file same, properly proven, with C. M. Crowe, Hartford, Kentucky, by the first day of August, 1909, or they will be forever barred.

MRS. C. R. CAMPBELL, Administratrix.

WHITESVILLE.

June 15.—Miss Pearl Howard, of Ralph, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Miss Ruby Pate.

Mr. Alonzo Bellamy, Deanfield, was here Friday.

Miss Willie Smith, Hartford, and Miss Florence Norris, Deanfield, were the guests of Mr. John Sinnett's Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. F. L. Compton has been at Philpot for the past few days nursing his sister, who is very low of abscess of the stomach.

Mr. Pete Kelley and family and Mr. Willis Holder and family spent last Friday on the "old bed" fishing and hunting. They report grand success and an enjoyable time.

Miss Gertrude Hickey is at home again.

Mr. Bernard Hickey, Central City, visited his parents last Sunday.

Lizzie Moseley, who recently graduated as a nurse at Kankakee, Ill., is visiting her brother, N. W. Moseley.

Mr. N. P. Kelley, Magan, was in town on business last Thursday.

Mr. Archie Caine, Owensboro, is in town to-day.

The ice cream supper had on last Saturday night by the Ladies Aid Society of the Christian church, was a great success.

Mr. Charlie Hubbard and Miss Francis Hamilton were married at Father O'Sullivan's last Tuesday evening.

There is a very large crop of tobacco set in this vicinity and people are very busy cleaning it out.

Mr. I. B. Ware purchased a nice horse of Kelley and Holder this morning.

Sheriff's Sale.

The Commonwealth of Kentucky, to the Sheriff of Ohio county, greeting:

We command you that you expose to sale the estate of J. S. Vertrees, to-wit: A certain lot lying and being in the town of Hartford, Ky., and designated on the plat of the East Addition to said town, which plat is of record in Deed Book No. 31, on page 233, and which lot in said plat is designated lot No. 2, in Block "S", and being the same lot conveyed to Jas. S. Vertrees by the Cessna Realty Company, as is evidenced by deed of record in the office aforesaid in Deed Book No. 36, on page 282, which, according to our commands, you have taken into your hands, and which still remains in your hands unsold, as you have certified to the Judge of our Ohio Circuit Court, to satisfy Butler Bros., the sum of $62.54 with interest thereon at the rate of six per centum per annum, from the 19th day of October, 1908, until paid. Also, the sum of $12.15 which in the same Court was adjudged to Butler Bros., for their costs in that behalf expended, whereof Butler Bros. hath recovered Execution against the said James S. Vertrees, by virtue of a judgment of the Ohio Circuit Court, and that you have the said sums of money before the Judge of our said Court, at the Court House in Hartford, Ky., on the Saturday succeeding the first Monday in July, next to satisfy the said Plaintiff's debt, interest and cost aforesaid, and have then and there this writ.

Witness E. G. Barrass, Clerk of our said Court at the Court House aforesaid, this 3rd day of June, 1909.

E. G. BARRASS, Clerk. Per S. L. WOERNER, D. C.

Equity Rally Day.

By request of State Officers and others, upon consultation, it has been decided by the National Officers that Saturday, June 19, of this year, shall be set apart as a general Equity Rally Day for the American Society of Equity.

It is therefore requested, very earnestly, that a meeting of every Local Union be held that day.

It is suggested that where practicable the meeting be held at two o'clock in the afternoon. This is, however, but a suggestion, subordinate to the convenience of the members themselves.

It is suggested that the ladies be also invited and that a program of song and speeches be a part of the proceedings.

For this purpose the following program is submitted, subject to such changes as each Local Union may think best:

PROGRAM

Call to order by Master of Ceremonies.

Singing.

Invocation.

Address by President, or by some member selected for that purpose.

Calling the roll of the entire membership from the time the Local was organized.

Speaking in memory of the dead.

Singing.

Invocation in memory of the dead.

Take up the names of each member whose dues for the year 1909 are not paid and consider what shall be done to induce them to place themselves in good standing.

Appointing four committees to be known as East, West, North and South Committees, among whom the names of delinquent members shall be apportioned with direction that every delinquent member shall be seen personally and the result reported back to the Local Union on the last meeting in June.

Make out list of farmers who should become members and distribute them among the same committees to be seen and reported on to the Local Union on the last meeting in June.

Discuss subject of what products of your farms you have that you can best sell by Local Pooling.

Discuss subject of what products of your farms you have that you can best sell by General Pooling.

Discuss advantages of having a Woman's Auxiliary.

Discuss whether you will engage in any local co-operative enterprise of a permanent character.

Good of the Society remarks.

Singing.

Invocation for dismissal.

It is earnestly requested that without special notice from your Local Secretary to the contrary that every member who receives this paper shall, without further notice, visit the regular meeting place of his Local on Saturday, June 19, at the usual hour of meeting. It is hoped, however, that all presidents will immediately confer with the secretary and others and arrange for the day meeting and that special word be circulated and a general invitation extended to every person in the entire community to be present with you. With proper interest taken in this meeting, it is easily possible for some of the smaller Locals to double their membership at this one single meeting.

S. D. KUMP, National Secretary.

REMARKABLE NEW CURE FOR CANCER

St. Louis Physician Uses New Weapon to Fight The Dreaded Disease.

The theory that fever and inflammation are merely nature's weapons to fight maladies is the basis of an interesting new medical system which is being applied in St. Louis with results that have astonished the experimenters.

In acting on the new theory regarding fever and inflammation a method first devised by Dr. August Bier, a celebrated German surgeon, is used. Dr. A. Seibert, is a convert to the theory, and a believer in the Bier method which he is using daily.

The method consists in holding the blood in an affected part—the lungs, the brain, or a gangrened finger—long enough to permit the diseased tissue to take up all the nourishment in the blood. This is done at frequent intervals, and is accomplished by means of bandages and vacuum-producing devices. The artificially produced congestion is known in medicine as "hyperemia."

Dr. Bier designed his system for use in surgical cases but Dr. Seibert has extended its use to so-called medical cases.

When a Post-Dispatch reporter asked Dr. Seibert to explain his use of the Bier method he said that one of his cases is that of a young man who had suffered from epilepsy for years, experiencing one or more seizures daily until the treatment was begun. This young man's head has been bandaged twice daily, the bandage being so arranged as to force the blood to remain in his head and permit the brain to take up the nourishment from it. In 15 months the patient has not had a seizure, and Dr. Seibert believes he will be well in a year and a half.

The young man was struck on the head with a baseball bat in boyhood. The lesion of the brain produced epilepsy. His case was supposed to be incurable, or at the best, curable only through a dangerous surgical operation.

The use of the bandages about the head and neck in this case in its relation to the new reasoning regarding fevers is explained as follows:

Starting with the hypothesis that nature puts forth no useless or unintentional effort, it was deduced that fever, which is present in almost all diseases, was only an increased activity of the blood in nature's effort to throw off the disease—a sort of hyperemia of the entire body.

In another case a breast affected by cancer was removed entirely, "sloughing" off while new, healthy tissue, built up by frequent hyperemia, was formed behind it.

Potato is the King.

The potato is King of Aroostook county. The prosperity is not with-cleared by the farmers in that one county on the potato crop of 1908, the total shipments to market having been 15,000,000 bushels. This year every piece of land that will grow a potato has been planted and the estimate for the 1909 crop is 30,000,000. If prices hold good, it is thought the Aroostook farmers will clear not less than $24,000,000 after keeping all the potatoes they need for home use. The price of potato land has advanced 30 to 50 per cent and the market is strong, even at such prices.

The banks in the county simply are gorged with potato money. Auto-plows and disk harrows are being purchased by the farmers and fertilizer is being purchased by the car-load lot Train after train, loaded down with supplies for the potato growers, is moving up the line into Aroostook county. The prosperity it not without its drawback, however, because the price of farm labor has advanced to Civil War rates, and the county is being overrun with automobile and piano agents. They are pleading with the farmers' wives and daughters to insist that with fortunes made it is necessary to have music in the home and autos in the roads.

Weds Man She Had Wronged.

Jacksonville, Ind June 7—Just 20 years from the day she sent Lige Fielden her sweetheart to the pen because she believed he had stolen her ring Miss Mollie Lienkeart will be married to the man whose innocence was only recently established. The date of the wedding is June 10. From the day Fielden was sentenced no word passed between him and Miss Lienkeart until a week ago, when Joshua Bawels, a farmer living on the place that had formerly been occupied by the Lienkeart family, found in a dried up spring the missing ring where Miss Lienkeart herself had lost it. Overwhelmed by remorse at the injury she had done, Miss Lienkeart, who had not married in the meantime held a reception in honor of Fielden. The reception was held last week and today announcement was made of the coming marriage of the couple.

FIGHT THE FILTHY HOUSE FLY.

A Poison that Is Not Dangerous to Human Life May be Used.

To warn people of the dangers of flies and to show them how to get rid of the pests, the Chicago Health Department has issued a bulletin, in which the pesky nuisances are called all sorts of bad names. "Flies are the dirtiest and filthiest of vermin," the bulletin says. "They are born in filth, live in filth and carry filth around with them, only to be scattered upon those whom they touch. Now is the time to build your lines of defence. Prepare to fight them as you would wild beasts seeking your life."

A good fly poison not dangerous to human life, the bulletin adds, is a solution of bichromate of potash, one dram dissolved in 2 ounces of water and sweetened with a little sugar. Put some in shallow dishes and place throughout the house. Another is cobalt chloride, one dram dissolved in 3 ounces of water, placed in shallow dishes as above. To clean rooms in which there are large numbers of flies burn pyrethrum powder or blow black flag into the air of the room. These do not kill the flies, they are merely stunned and fall to the floor. They must then be gathered up and destroyed.

Seven different varieties of flies are found in our houses, 98 per cent of which are represented by the common house fly. Flies lay their eggs only in fermenting or decaying substances—by preference in horse manure. Hence says Harper's Weekly every stable is a center of infection unless periodically disinfected. The fly maggot is also hatched out in latrines and ash-pit refuse, such as bedding straw, rags, paper scraps of meat, fruit, etc., on which substances the larvae subsist after they hatch, which occurs in about twelve days after the egg has been laid. It is estimated that a single fly, laying 120 eggs at a time, will produce a progeny amounting to sextillions by the end of the season.

The number of bacteria upon a single fly have been proved to range all the way from 550 to 6,600,000. The average for 414 flies which were examined at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Storrs, Conn., last year was 1,250,000 bacteria apiece. This represents about the number of bacteria that enter the human system when one swallows a glass of liquid into which some fly was perhaps fallen, to be removed by a slovenly waiter without the liquid being thrown away.

The Reckless Demand for Cheapness.

Our public discussion has ceased to be deliberative and has become emotional. There is no consideration of a Tariff for Protection or of a Tariff for revenue. There is only a movement of sound and fury for cheap goods, low prices, no taxes, if possible and at all events no taxes on the poor. If there are those in the community to whom we might reasonably look for conscientious guidance of the people in regarding the needs of the Government, or adaptation of Tariff means for revenue ends, they are silent or else are engaged in ingenious appeals to class prejudice and efforts to play upon and increase the natural discontent of the unsuccessful, the unemployed, the unfortunate and the poor.

Assiduously engaged in this exploitation of popular unrest are college men and newspaper editors whose superior culture and foresight should teach them whither popular fury once aroused may logically be expected to lead. Reckless in this working up of a demand for cheapness and for antipathy against taxation, they are also dishonest in deftly concealing from that their philosophy of cheapness has as one of its cardinal principles the boon of low wages an open labor market and the open shop. There will be some very pretty quarrels to settle when our unemployed armies on the scale of London's and our socialistic organizations imported from Europe and nurtured in university settlements and by our own faddists come to ask in insistent tones and with suggestive threats the support and the indulgence at public expense which they have been encouraged to think is their rightful demand.—Indianapolis Star.

THE ONLY REAL CHEW- ING TOBACCO.

How The Arkansas Farmer Make the Best Plug on Earth.

Out in Arkansas, to use an old saying each man "chews his own tobacco and spits where he pleases." To get tobacco in proper shape for the Arkansas palate is a long and laborious process. It requires a log an ax, an auger a rammer, corn whisky, honey a maul and wedges. However in the opinion of the Arkansas chewer it is worth it.

The Arkansas chewer buys or raises leaf tobacco. Then he goes out into the woods and cuts down a tree. Trimming of the branches, he rolls the log to a place where the sun will shine on it 14 hours a day in summer and eight hours in winter. Beginning at one end of the log, with the auger he bores holes three inches apart until he reached the other end. After he has blown the chips away he seizes a bundle of tobacco and begins the work of ramming the leaves down in the auger holes until they are filled within three inches of the top. The next step is to take the ramer and ram the tobacco as hard as it can be rammed. A jug of corn whisky which would burn the throat out of an Easterner then is called into play. The tobacco chewer goes from hole to hole, pouring in corn whisky on top of the tobacco until the holes are filled within an inch or so of the bark.

After the whisky jug the Arkansas chewer takes up a jar of honey. From it he pours enough of the sweetening into each hole until it is filled to the top. The Arkansas then sits down on the log for two hours to permit the corn whisky and the honey to soak into the tobacco leaves. He occupies that time in whittling plugs to fit each of the holes, when he drives a plug into each auger hole until it will go no further.

In Arkansas the unpardonable sin is for one man to meddle with another man's tobacco log. It means a quick draw and sudden death. The Arkansas chewer goes home and does not return to the log for two weeks. At the expiration of that period he drives wedges along the line of the auger holes until the log splits its entire length and falls apart. Exposed to his view are the long, round plugs of tobacco. They are redolent with the perfumes of the still, the hive, the plantation and the forest. Tenderly he lifts them from their auger molds and smells them critically. Then he takes a chew and gives a whoop that is heard by the folk at home. He has tested the weed and has found that it is good.

In Fond Remembrance.

Mr. Woodford Allen departed this life June 4 1909 after a long suffering of stomach trouble. He left a pleasant consolation behind. He was 46 years 2 months old at his death. They laid him to rest in the Allen burying ground in the presence of a large number of sorrowing friends and relatives. He leaves one child, Miss Ida Daugherty and an aged father two sisters and two brothers to mourn his sad departure.

How we all will miss him in all the long weary years to come. God gives and can take a way life. He is done with his sorrows and troubles on this earth and now is around the great white throne of God.

All that medical aid and loving hands could do was done for him but it was his time to go we cannot call him back but let us so live that we may meet him in the great beyond. He was loved by all who knew him. Weep not dear loved one he is not dead he is in a lasting slumber. He was a kind father true son and a dear uncle.

His Loving Nieces,
IDA B. ANNIE and GERTIE.

About Women.

In Scotland the legal ages at which boys and girls can marry are, fourteen and twelve respectively.

Women convicts in England are addressed by their first names, instead of by numbers, as men are.

A Japanese bride gives her wedding presents to her parents as a slight recompense for their trouble in raising her.

The University of Missouri teaches women how to organize, construct and direct playgrounds.

Dean Lida King, of the Woman's College, at Brown University, declares that men make the best teachers.

Hugh Cairns, the Boston sculptor, declares that women's figures have been ruined by devotion to fashion.

It is reported at Wellesley College that Miss Caroline Hazard, who has been president for ten years, will resign soon on account of her health.

Fish and Game Commissioner T. R. Holland, of Colorado, has announced his intention of placing one district of the State in charge of a woman game warden.

The women in the Russian postal and telegraphic service have been forbidden to marry men outside their own department. It was alleged that they might inform their husbands of the contents of telegrams.

Mrs. Badford, of New Orleans, 87 years young, has been superintendent of the Chinese Mission in that city for twenty-three years. The mission carries on a Sunday school and Monday evening classes.

In Germany 150 women are taking medical courses, and in France 600 Paris has about 100 women physicians nearly all of them being employed in an official capacity, post or telephone service, etc. Some of them have also been appointed as medical officers for passenger boats on the Mediterranean.

Storage of Coal Under water

The storage of coal under water has been proposed as a remedy for two inconveniences of the common method of stage—danger of spontaneous combustion and deterioration of the quality of the fuel. Coal, when freshly mined, is very easily affected by chemical, mechanical, and physical agencies. The effect of exposure to the atmosphere is a gradual diminution of the value of the coal in consequence of a loss of calorific power and substance, and a deterioration in the quality of the gas and coke obtained from it.

The first action is a rapid absorption of oxygen which is partly retarded by the pores of the coal and partly combined chemically with the formation of water and carbon dioxide and a disengagement of heat. This effect is particularly noticeable in fine coal, which exposes a large surface to the air. During the storage the gas-producing power of the coal also diminishes. If oxidation is increased artificially it may be observed that the coke produced from the coal does not cohere, and that the gas consists largely of hydrogen and gives little light. The value of the by-products is also diminished. The gases evolved by piles of coal consist chiefly of methane, mixed with very variable quantities of carbon dioxide, and in certain cases of carbon monogen. The absorption of water is very variable, from 4 to 10 per cent. Grundmann's researches show that in regard to calorific power, a medium coal containing 5 to 10 per cent of ash and as much of hygroscopic water and producing 6,500 or 7,000 calories lost at least 4 per cent of its value in four weeks, 9 per cent in six months, and 12 per cent in one year. In certain climates the loss on a year amounts to 20 or 30 per cent.

Spontaneous combustion is always to be feared in large masses of coal. It has been proved that the temperature of English coal freshly stored rises in 2 or 3 days to from 70 to 85 deg. F. and thereafter continues between 85 and 100 deg. F. Water may accelerate this rise of temperature by bringing oxygen in solution. Special care should be taken not to deposit dry coal upon any large quantity of damp coal. Wet coal should be spread in layers 8 inches thick and allowed to dry 24 hours before being covered with a new layer. Sulphur compounds do not play an important part in spontaneous ignition. Pyrites resists atmospheric influences well, with the exception of the variety called marcasite which tends to decompose in the presence of water. The practice of ventilating piles of coal by means of little shafts and canals although recommended by insurance companies, is rather injurious than otherwise, as it facilitates the absorption of oxygen. If ventilation is attempted, it should be mechanical and very energetic in order to produce a refrigeration which will counterbalance the oxidizing effect of the air.

Will Make and Unmake Parties.

Forty-three Republicans and eighteen Democrats voted in the Senate yesterday to impose a duty of 25 cents a ton on iron ore, cans voted to place it on the free list. Yet the esteemed Economist still believes that the Tariff is a party question.—Brooklyn Times.

Well, what is it if not a party question? It is so entirely a party question that it bids fair to break up parties. There is a larger number of Protection Democrats in the Senate than there is of "reform" Republicans. The Democratic party is gradually disintegrating on the Tariff question, while the Republican party is developing some non-Protectionists. Not long hence there may be a new division—Protectionists vs. Free-Traders—and no longer Republicans and Democrats. The Tariff was never so entirely a party question. It will make and unmake parties.

NEW CAPITOL ABOUT FINISHED.

Dedication Expected to Take Place About July 15. Moving in To follow soon.

Frankfort, Ky., June 14.—Sometime within the next thirty days it is expected by the members of the State Capitol Commission that the new Capitol will be completed so that the work of moving into the new Capitol will be begun, and in less than a week, the family of State officers will then be domiciled in their new home. The dedication will soon follow, and it is expected that it will be over by July 15.

The Capitol Fair Association will hold its fair August 31, four days, and it is the desire of the citizens here that the dedication may be held so that it will not in any way conflict with the fair to the advantage of the dedication or the disadvantage of the fair. The Capitol is so near the Fair Grounds, however, that it will be one of the special attractions to induce the large crowd to gather here not only to witness the exhibition of livestock, horses, etc., but to come to see the Capitol.

The work of installing the electric fixtures and the completing of the power house is now in progress and will soon be done. The dedication exercises could be held to-morrow if it were not that there is no light in the building which is the most necessary article because the reception that will be held at night the illumination of the capitol lawn and the ball will be the great features of the dedication exercises.

General Lindsey is the chairman of the Citizens' Committee that will arrange for the dedication exercises.

Are Women Hypocrites?

Prof. Zueblin is not satisfied with the present status of woman. He does not like woman to be regarded as "a cross between an angel and an idiot." He does not believe women ought to be forced to marry in order to have food on the table, and he thinks the present condition intolerable because a woman's whole life is spent in trying to please a man.

The worst thing about matters as they stand, according to Prof. Zueblin, is that it makes women hypocrites. Women get things by indirection. She goes through her husband's pocket while he is asleep as a sober American Judge has told her that she has a right to do. She feels him completely during the "courtship illusion," and she pleases him and furthers his interest in ways that are too subtle for his dull, masculine intelligence to grasp. In short, woman is a hypocrite and will remain a hypocrite until she earns her own living and casts her own vote.

Even then, we hope a little of woman's hypocrisy will still remain. What every woman knows is that she can help the man she loves by not letting him see that she is helping him and we men while we sometimes guess what she is doing, are perhaps better off by not quite knowing. Let women have her economic independence let her run automobiles and build bridges and perform surgical operations and cast votes and run for offices (and get them) and do everything else once held masculine except grow beards—but do not let her stop fooling us. From Success.

What a College Girl Can do If She Will.

The college girl who lives in a small town has perhaps the greatest power for influence. Her education and experience raise her to a position which commands the respect of those others who have not had her advantages and this position she should use, not as an excuse for egotism or self-sufficiency but as a means of accomplishing reforms in the life of the community. Starting a village improvement society is an excellent way of interesting people in their surroundings, and opens to many an entirely new world, a world which teaches that the useful is not necessarily the ugly, and that environment is the inspiration of action. Beautifying the village or town is bound to bring the citizens together in a new and more intimate association and does much to abolish those dens of vice which disfigure not only the aspect, but the moral life of a town.

Of course this is but one phase of civic improvement; there are many others. In the factory town especially there is wide scope for the college-bred woman's activity. There is no reason why the factory town should be unsightly or why the employees should live in ugly unsanitary dwellings; no reason why the women of the town should not be roused to interest in their surroundings, and above all to self-respect.

The woman of education owes it to her less fortunate sister to encourage that feeling of self-respect which lies dormant in the breast of so many factory women. Give them the vision of something broader and higher than is comprehended in their own horizon, and they will try to conform their lives to it. Give them model day-nurseries, and they will give their children cleaner homes. Awaken in them the consciousness that they have possibilities and they will try to realize them.—The Delinquent for July.

Ex-Senator Deboe Buys a Gold Mine.

Former United States Senator W. J. Deboe, returned Saturday from Mexico, where he located personally inspected and purchased a gold mine, which he believes will prove a bonanza, says the Crittenden Press. It is located 500 miles south of the city of Mexico and is forty miles from Ajaccio, the nearest railroad station. In company with four other capitalists, two mining experts and several Indian guides the trip was made. Senator Deboe had been absent a month. The new company, just organized is known as the "Cajonas Gold Mining Co.," and Senator Deboe is president of it. His friends here hope "there's millions in it" for him and think he will make an ideal millionaire. The state of Ajaccio is to assist in building a new automobile roadway from the railroad to the mine, and it is the purpose of the owners immediately to build a plant to reduce the ore to bullion on the ground. The experts who went there declare, we are informed, that there are millions of tons of pay dirt in sight.

"In God We Trust."

"In God We Trust" is to appear on the new Lincoln cents, which are expected to be issued before August next from the mints at Philadelphia, San Francisco and Denver where all our pennies are coined. Heretofore the American penny has never borne the head of an American, and Lincoln has very properly been chosen to be honored first of all. The restoration of the popular and expressive legend, "In God We Trust," is due to the action of President Taft, and we honor him for it.—Leslie's Weekly.
